The MSW programme is a self-funded programme with the aim to train professionals qualifying for recognized social work qualification (RSW) at the Master's degree level. It aspires to train students becoming ethically-oriented social work practitioners being competent, reflective and good in professional practice.

On successful completion of the programme, students should be able to

- ▲ use appropriate knowledge, theories and demonstrate skills in social work in order to become competent and professional in their practice;
- ▲ reflect on their own practice so that they can intellectually construct, articulate and evaluate their own philosophy and practice in reference to social work values and ethics;
- ▲ demonstrate the ability to integrate theory in practice in an innovative way, discover and examine culturally relevant social work practice;
- ▲ evaluate professional activities and service programs, changing social needs and advocacy for appropriate welfare reforms and service delivery.

Programme Features

- ▲ 2 years for the full-time MSW degree, with 1 concurrent placement in Year 2 Semester A and 1 block fieldwork placement in Year 2 Semester B (maximum study period: 5 years). Concurrent fieldwork placement is conducted in 17 weeks with 3 days per week or 6 sessions whereas block fieldwork placement is conducted in 10 weeks with 5 days per week;
- ▲ 3 years for the part-time MSW degree to students taking two concurrent fieldwork placements in Year 2 and 3 Semester A & B respectively (maximum study period: 7.5 years). Concurrent fieldwork placement in the part-time study mode is conducted in 25 weeks with 2 days per week or 4 sessions per week;
- ▲ The MSW programme consists of 15 core courses amounting to 49 credits plus another 2 electives carrying 6 credits, making a total of 55 credit-units in the programme;
- ▲ 900 fieldwork training hours (800 hours direct fieldwork placements plus 100 hours placement preparation or related activities);
- ▲ Strengthening of the training in social work values and ethics, theories and practice to three courses emphasizing working with individuals and families, groups, community work and macro-level social work practice;
- ▲ Addition of human behavior and social environment course subject areas, and social sciences theories for social work to those students without a social sciences training background;
- ▲ Legal knowledge and perspectives for social workers; enhancing mental health training, practice-related electives and advocacy for social work students;
- ▲ Integrative Social Work Seminar to train students becoming competent, reflective and good in professional practice.
