This book explores rising labor unrest in China as it integrates into the global political economy. The book highlights the tensions present between China’s efforts to internationalize and accept claims to respect freedom of association rights, and its continuing insistence on a restrictive, and often punitive, approach to worker organizations.

Date: 23/02/2018
Time: 7:30p.m.-9:00p.m.
Venue: B4701, AC1, City University of Hong Kong

Speaker & Author: Sabrina Zajak
Sabrina Zajak is the junior professor at Ruhr-university Bochum in Germany and a founding member of the institute for Protest and Social Movement Research in Berlin.

kapohui2@cityu.edu.hk
LSNCityu